DATA PRIVACY

The Data Protection Act 2018 is the UK's implementation of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). It defines the rules governing how organisations may collect, store, and use personal data about individuals.

Everyone responsible for using personal data has to follow strict rules called 'data protection principles'.

They must make sure the information is:

- used fairly, lawfully and transparently
- used for specified, explicit purposes
- used in a way that is adequate, relevant and limited to only what is necessary
- accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date
- kept for no longer than is necessary
- handled in a way that ensures appropriate security, including protection against unlawful or unauthorised processing, access, loss, destruction or damage

By the definitions set forth, Thatcham Photographic Club (TPC) is a data controller on behalf of its membership.

INFORMATION

The main information held about members includes their name, address, email address and telephone numbers. In addition, attendance information is collected and consolidated into spreadsheets via paper, email and online forms for club activities, events and meetings. Banking and other sensitive personal information is not stored by the Club. Each member may review, update, or request deletion of their information on application to the Treasurer at the following email address: treasurer@thatchamphotoclub.com

TPC may also hold personal information about anyone who has been in contact with the Club in the past. This information may be used to contact individuals for the purpose of conducting and promoting the Club's general activities.

PURPOSE

TPC collects and uses personal information for the following purposes:

- To contact members about Club related meetings, events and activities.
- To request payment of annual fees
- To circulate newsletters or other material deemed to be of interest to members.

TPC does not share personal information with other members, companies or organisations without explicit consent.

ACCURACY

At the beginning of each year the personal information will be sent to each member individually either on paper or in electronic form so that each member can review update or remove information as required. Proof of completion of this process will be maintained either as signed paper forms or a record of completed electronic forms.

STORAGE & RETENTION

Membership records are kept securely online in cloud based storage and accessed by only those members performing tasks on behalf of the club. Other records are kept on paper and secured in locked drawers.

Records will normally be held for a minimum of 8 years. TPC may retain historical archives indefinitely as a permanent history record of the Club.
